

Tuesday 27th November 2018

Dear parents/carers,

Next week at New Horizons Children's Academy we will be taking part in Barnardo's Kindfulness Week:

Throughout the week, we will be taking part in activities to promote an understanding of kindness and what it means to us. This will culminate in a celebration on Friday 7th December, where we ask that everyone pays £1 to come to school in their own clothes. The money raised will be donated to Barnardo's and go towards giving vulnerable children a better future.

All pupils are also encouraged to enter a poster competition centred around the question: What does kindness mean to you? The best posters will be laminated and displayed around the school.

Finally, pupils will be encouraged to display acts of kindness throughout the week. Anyone seen showing an act of kindness will be awarded a kindness token. The tokens will be added up throughout the week and the three class with the most tokens will be rewarded with a choice of four activities on Friday afternoon.

We hope that you will join us in promoting kindness next week and perhaps you can show a random act of kindness yourself!

Yours sincerely,

Miss Thornton
Assistant Headteacher
